At Crevio, we respect your privacy and are committed to protecting the information entrusted to us. This Privacy Policy explains how [Legal Company Name] ("Crevio," "we," "us," or "our") collects, uses, stores, shares, and protects information when you access or use the Crevio website, applications, platform, APIs, and related services (collectively, the "Services").

Crevio is a platform that helps brands, agencies, creators, and other users discover, manage, execute, and monitor creator collaborations, campaigns, contracts, deliverables, payments, and related workflows.

By accessing or using the Services, you acknowledge that you have read and understood this Privacy Policy.

1. Scope of This Privacy Policy

This Privacy Policy applies to information collected through Crevio's website, applications, platform, and related Services. It applies to visitors, registered users, creators, brands, agencies, campaign participants, and others who interact with Crevio. Certain Crevio features may be subject to additional privacy notices or terms.

2. Information We Collect

We collect information you provide directly to us, information collected automatically when you use the Services, and information we receive from third-party services or other users where applicable. Depending on how you use Crevio, this may include account, creator, business, campaign, contract, content, communication, payment, technical, and usage information.

3. Account Information

When you create a Crevio account, we may collect your name, email address, phone number, username, profile information, authentication credentials, account preferences, and other information required to establish and secure your account. You are responsible for keeping your credentials confidential.

4. Brand, Agency, and Business Information

If you use Crevio on behalf of a brand, agency, or other organization, we may collect the organization's name, website, industry, business contact details, team-member information, campaign requirements, budgets, billing information, and other information necessary to manage your account and campaigns.

5. Creator Information

Creators may provide their name, profile image, biography, portfolio, social-media handles, content categories, audience information, follower and engagement metrics, rates, campaign history, and other information relevant to creator collaborations. Appropriate profile information may be made available to authorized brands or agencies to facilitate discovery and collaboration.

6. Social Media and Connected Accounts

Crevio may allow you to connect social-media accounts and other third-party services. When you connect an account, we may receive information made available through that integration based on your authorization and permissions. This may include account identifiers, public profile information, content, follower information, engagement metrics, audience insights, and other information made available through the relevant API.

7. Campaign and Collaboration Information

When you create or participate in a campaign, we may collect campaign briefs, objectives, budgets, timelines, requirements, creator assignments, deliverables, approvals, revisions, performance requirements, campaign status, and related materials. We use this information to facilitate and manage relationships between campaign participants.

8. Contracts and Agreements

Crevio may process information contained in contracts, agreements, statements of work, campaign briefs, or other arrangements between users, including parties, deliverables, deadlines, fees, payment terms, usage rights, exclusivity requirements, milestones, approvals, and other contractual requirements.

9. Content and Communications

Users may upload or create images, videos, documents, links, messages, comments, feedback, campaign submissions, and other content through Crevio. We process this information to provide Services, facilitate collaboration, manage campaigns, maintain records, provide support, resolve disputes, and protect the platform.

10. Payment and Transaction Information

Where Crevio provides payment, billing, invoicing, or payout functionality, we may process transaction details, billing information, payout information, invoices, refunds, payment status, and tax-related information. Third-party payment providers may process payment credentials directly.

11. Information Collected Automatically

When you use Crevio, we may automatically collect your IP address, browser type, operating system, device information, device identifiers, approximate location, referring pages, pages and features accessed, login activity, timestamps, session information, error reports, and security-related information.

12. Cookies and Similar Technologies

Crevio may use cookies and similar technologies to authenticate users, maintain sessions, remember preferences, maintain security, understand usage, measure performance, and improve functionality. You may manage certain cookies through your browser or device settings, although disabling essential cookies may affect some features.

13. How We Use Information

We use information to provide, operate, maintain, secure, and improve Crevio; manage accounts; facilitate creator-brand relationships; manage campaigns; organize contracts and deliverables; process transactions; provide analytics and support; prevent fraud and abuse; troubleshoot issues; develop features; and comply with applicable law.

14. Automated Systems and AI

Crevio may use automated systems, artificial intelligence, and machine-learning technologies to assist with campaign organization, information analysis or classification, deadline and deliverable monitoring, summaries, recommendations, workflow events, and campaign-management activities.

Automated or AI-generated outputs may not always be accurate or complete, so users should review important outputs before relying on them.

15. How We Share Information

We may share information with authorized campaign participants when necessary to facilitate a collaboration. We may also share information with trusted service providers supporting hosting, storage, payments, analytics, communications, authentication, security, customer support, and AI functionality. We do not sell or rent your personal information for third-party marketing merely because you use Crevio.

16. Legal Disclosures and Protection of Crevio

We may disclose information when reasonably necessary to comply with applicable laws, regulations, legal processes, court orders, or lawful governmental requests, or to enforce agreements, investigate violations, prevent fraud or abuse, address security issues, or protect Crevio, our users, or others.

17. Business Transfers

If Crevio is involved in a merger, acquisition, financing, restructuring, bankruptcy, sale of assets, or similar corporate transaction, information may be transferred as part of that transaction. Where required by law, we will provide appropriate notice.

18. Third-Party Services and Websites

Crevio may integrate with or link to third-party websites, applications, social-media platforms, payment services, analytics providers, AI providers, and other services. Third parties operate under their own terms and privacy policies, and this Privacy Policy does not govern their independent practices.

19. Data Security

We implement reasonable technical and organizational safeguards designed to protect information against unauthorized access, loss, misuse, alteration, or disclosure. Measures may include access controls, authentication, encryption, monitoring, logging, backups, infrastructure safeguards, and security procedures. No internet-based service can guarantee absolute security.

20. Data Retention

We retain information for as long as reasonably necessary to provide the Services, fulfill the purposes described in this Privacy Policy, maintain records, comply with legal or contractual obligations, resolve disputes, prevent fraud and abuse, and protect Crevio. When information is no longer required, we may delete, anonymize, or de-identify it, subject to applicable requirements.

21. Account Closure and Data Deletion

You may request closure of your Crevio account through available functionality or by contacting us. Certain information may be retained for legal compliance, contractual records, accounting, security, fraud prevention, dispute resolution, or legitimate business purposes. Information contained in another user's campaign, contract, transaction, or other records may not be immediately deleted solely because your account has been closed.

22. Your Privacy Rights and Choices

Depending on your location and applicable law, you may have rights to access, correct, delete, or obtain a copy of your personal information, as well as rights to object to or restrict certain processing, withdraw consent where applicable, or exercise other rights provided by law. To exercise an applicable right, contact us using the information below. We may need to verify your identity.

23. International Data Transfers

Crevio and its service providers may process, store, or access information in countries other than the country where you reside. Where required by law, we will use appropriate safeguards for international transfers of personal information.

24. Children's Privacy

Crevio is intended for users legally permitted to use the Services under applicable law. We do not knowingly collect personal information from children where such collection is prohibited by law. If we learn that we have done so, we will take reasonable steps to address the situation, which may include deleting the information or terminating the relevant account. [Insert Crevio's actual minimum-age requirement before publication.]

25. Marketing Communications

We may send account notifications, security alerts, campaign updates, contract notifications, payment notifications, and important service announcements. Where permitted by law, we may also send promotional communications. You may unsubscribe from promotional communications, but essential service communications may continue.

26. Changes to This Privacy Policy

We may update this Privacy Policy to reflect changes to Crevio, our Services, technology, business practices, or applicable laws. We will update the "Last Updated" date and, where required by law, provide additional notice of material changes.
